CT 4-H camps offer one of the best bargains around.
Fees are kept low with the help of numerous volunteers who work tirelessly throughout the year to help raise funds in support of camp programs and spend countless hours maintaining each facility.

Camperships are available on a limited basis.
4-H camp is provided on a non-discriminatory basis and is open to all without regard to race, color, sex, national origin, religion or disability.
All 4-H camp programs are provided through a partnership between county 4-H camp foundations and University of CT Extension.
UConn Extension is an equal opportunity employer and program provider.

The first question every child is asked when they return to school in the fall is, “What did you do this summer?” Will your child say they sat home bored or excitedly share the life changing experiences they had at camp? Exploration, discovery, encouragement and challenge. At Connecticut’s four 4-H camps, children have the opportunity to put all these words into action whether exploring the world around or the world within. Through our educational/recreational programs campers learn to grow socially, intellectually and emotionally. By living cooperatively in a natural environment, campers focus on developing life skills with an emphasis on experiential learning (learning by doing).
